

WORLD HAPPENINGS
BRIEFLY TOLD

There will be no banquets, balls or official receptions in the royal palace this winter because of the hard times in Holland, Queen Wilhelmina has decided.

Parliament will be summoned on Jan. 25, it was learned officially at Ottawa. It will be the fifth session of the 17th Parliament since Confederation.

Building permits issued in Sydney, N.S.W., in the first eight months of 1933 were more than double those for the corresponding period of the preceding year.

Although usually regarded as a feast-time delicacy, 50 drums of almond macaroons were included in the stores of the Byrd Antarctic Expedition because of their high caloric content.

The American museum of natural history announced recently Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh had presented to the museum the monoplane in which they completed a 20,000-mile aerial survey.

Dominion government approval of eight unemployment relief works in Manitoba, resulting in a total expenditure of slightly more than $23,000, was announced at Winnipeg by Lieut.-Col. G. C. MacLeod, federal director of unemployment relief.

Sales totalled $3,607,216, lower by $1,446,628 than those of the previous year. Profit to the provincial government last year was $2,224,873.

Frenchman Disappointed

Could Not Attend British Parliament Opening Because Clothes Were Lost

The opening of Parliament was not without its touch of humor—special reserved for those behind the scenes, saw the Overseas Mail. Fourteen distinguished French politicians, with tricolors across their white waistcoats watched the State opening of Parliament. But there should have been fifteen. The fifteenth man was Senator Hennessy, and while his colleagues were at the House of Parliament he was packing up and down his bedroom at the Savoy in his pyjamas. M. Hennessy left his home in Paris suitably equipped with the evening clothes that Frenchmen wear on state occasions. He flew from Le Bourget Aerodrome. His valet came by train and steamer — and between them his trunk got lost. "It is terrible," said M. Hennessy. "A state is waiting for me to see your King open his Parliament, and how can I go? I have no clothes."

Treatment For Pneumonia

Air Injected Through Chest Wall In Acute Cases

Dr. Alfred Stengel, professor of medicine and vice-president of the University of Pennsylvania in charge of medical affairs, confirmed a report that artificial pneumothorax recently was used in the treatment of acute lobar pneumonia at the university hospital, for the first time in the United States.

The treatment is similar to that used for many years in cases of pulmonary tuberculosis, and consists of injecting air through the chest wall of a patient to compress a diseased lung.

Miniature Zoo arrived in Glasgow from Montreal. The specimens were: four young American black bears, four Canadian beavers, two porcupines, and six turtles. They were consigned from the Toronto Zoo to the Scottish Zoological Park, Corstorphine, Edinburgh. The beavers were sent as the gift of Captain Glasgow, of the Department of Colonization for the Province of Ontario in Glasgow.

India Greatly Pleased
With Grain Exhibition

Official Report Praised Show Held In Regina Last Summer

India is greatly pleased with the results of its participation in the world's grain exhibition and conference in Regina, last summer.

Observing the Indian trade commissioner at Hamburg in his report on Indian trade with continental Europe and Indian participation in the Leipzig Fair "had for the most part of a dismal tale to tell," the New Delhi correspondent of the "Times of India," says:

"Quite the contrary is the story set forth in a newly prepared report on Indian participation in the world's grain exhibition and conference which was held in Regina, in the province of Saskatchewan, in Canada, this year. 'Show what you grow and share what you know' was the slogan on which the fair was run. At the invitation of the Canadian government, the Imperial Council of Agricultural Research for India, organized an exhibit of some of the more important Indian agricultural products and arranged for the reading of a number of scientific and technical papers of general interest."

The vice-chairman of the council, was in charge of the Indian section of the great Winnipeg exhibition a few years ago and after that he was invited by the Canadian government to open their big Ottawa exhibition. Indian participation at Regina appears to have revealed the importance of inter-imperial co-operation of the kind which was then born in him and it was very thorough and well organized.

"India had a large exhibition stall (at Regina). The result was many complimentary comments by visitors. The stand came to be regarded as one of the most attractive, picturesque and informative in the exhibition and 130,000 people visited it. B. D. Aali, Indian trade publicity officer, London, was in charge and read some of the dozen important papers sent in for the grain conference which was organized by the Canadian society of technical agriculturists."

The official Indian report on the exhibit at the Regina exhibition and conference indicated the objects aimed at were "propaganda and educational and not directly commercial," and these objects it was claimed, were fully achieved.

Add To Street Noises

Taxicabs In New York Cannot Install Radio Sets

Two thousand smart new taxicabs operating in New York City streets are about to be stripped of their new radio sets for attracting fares — radio sets.

In an order which became effective Dec. 20, James S. Bolan, police commissioner, rescinded permission he granted last September for installation of radios in taxicabs and demanded that the radios already installed be taken out or the owner's back license would be subject to revocation.

The radios already installed in 2,000 cars and orders for equipment for 3,000 more represent an investment of $200,000 by the operators, Maurice Hotchner, executive chairman of the United Taxicab Board of Trade, Inc., said. The 2,000 radio taxicabs with radios were manufactured by General Motors Corporation and equipped with radio sets costing $40 each.

The sets are installed so that they cannot be switched on by the driver, but only by the passenger when the car is in motion and the flag is down.

Advocates of the radio-equipped cabs attributed the opposition to the fact that the radios were being too successful in attracting patrons.

In his order, Mr. Bolan said that the radios are only a distraction to the driver and that the din of street noises when in operation, thus constituting a public nuisance, but that the difficulty of keeping them in repair would add materially to the cost of taxicab upkeep at the expense of reserve funds which should be set aside to enable operators to meet their liabilities. The radios were also likely to distract the attention of drivers, he said, and "thus increase accident frequency and traffic congestion."

Might Have Changed Things

Lloyd George tells in his war memoirs that the British Expeditionary Force did not land at Antwerp because advised by the British War Office that the Germans couldn't move rapidly through the Belgian mud. Would the course of the war have been changed, and to what extent, had the war office known what it was talking about? asks the Leeds Herald.

Looking Into The Future

French Secrecy Seen 1934 As A Year Of Peace

Mme. Blanche De Paunac, France's secret extraordinary, came out of her annual Christmas silence to predict that 1934 will be a year of peace and returned prosperity.

Next September, Mme. De Paunac said, would mark the opening of a new era of prosperity for the United States—an era whose start would spread out from the United States to the whole world.

Great attention is paid to Mme. De Paunac by those who pay attention to secesses. She won fame by predicting in midsummer of 1918 that the World War would end with an armistice Nov. 11.

Rising from her self-induced hypnotic sleep, necessary to bring forth occult powers, Mme. De Paunac saw for 1934:

Adolf Hitler's power unbroken. But, she added in 1935 it would be broken.

No political revolutions of moment. The deaths of a famous general and two French statesmen.

Restoration of a king who ran away from his throne.

A great, mysterious French air catastrophe—a group of planes to leave for a given point and disappear.

A German sea catastrophe. Mme. De Paunac sees no big scale fighting of any sort during 1934. Russia she sees in the role of world's peacemaker. She visualizes France, Great Britain and Italy reaching a smooth working agreement on European affairs.

The greatest change Mme. De Paunac sees is the restoration of the monarchy in Spain during the year.

Charles A. Lindbergh, Mme. De Paunac said, would be much in the news. But not, she added, through an accident. She foresees for him the good fortune to fly as much as he wants without danger.

Mme. De Paunac does not use crystal globes or tea leaves, of whose powers she is extremely skeptical. She goes to sleep, visibly suffers, then breaks into speech.

Pass Peace Motions

Thirty-One Countries Comply With Request Of Arthur Henderson

Three thousand, four hundred new resolutions from 31 countries in support of the disarmament conference have been officially acknowledged at Arthur Henderson's request.

Turkish women from Istanbul, business leaders, farmers, town councilmen, distinguished doctors and lawyers, brigadier-generals and rear admirals, who won the D.S.O., are represented.

Only two resolutions appear from Germany in the new official list and none from Italy. Five hundred and fifty resolutions are listed from France.

The list acknowledging the resolutions, which were presented by the international consultative group for disarmament, covers 26 pages of the official journal of the Disarmament conference.

Women sent many more resolutions than men. Four hundred resolutions were received from the United States women's organizations. Women from Argentina and Brazil, and Moslem women from Syria, have expressed a desire for the success of the conference.

The youth of the world, especially university students, is represented strongly in the resolutions received during recent months. Student groups at British universities, including Oxford, Cambridge, and London, and at several United States universities, have sent in resolutions.

Manhattan's Phone Book

Box Company Changed Name To Be Among First In Directory

There's always a race to be first in Manhattan's voluminous telephone book, and this time a New York firm the A.A.A. Ace Box Company, by the process of changing its name to the A.A.A.A.A. Ace Box Company, slipped into third place—just behind the A.A.A. and the A.A.A.A. The new directory lists all six A's. The owners of the business, though secretive about just what the letters stand for, swear that the name is bona fide.

There are 5½ columns of the house of Jones in the 1,040 pages of the directory.

Those who inspected the book carefully announced with great satisfaction that the "Depression Cafe," listed in the last book, had disappeared, and that the "prosperity" firms had increased from 19 to 22 in number.

A men's rooming house, the 223X, holds the last place in the directory and next to it is a man named William Zytlenfeld.

Will Not Produce Energy

Power Not Likely From Atom Splitting Says Lord Rutherford

Fundly-held beliefs that a revolutionary source of energy for all mankind's needs will be found in the split atom have been tossed gently into the scientific refuse heap by Lord Rutherford.

"The energy produced by the breaking down of the atom is a very poor kind of thing," said the Cambridge University physicist, who has repeatedly successfully shattered atoms. "Anyone who expects a source of power from the transformation of these atoms is talking moonshine."

The atom, he said, has been split into 50 constituents by bombarding it with gases containing an electrical density of five million volts. During this bombardment, there sometimes appeared a definite grain of energy. "But," he added, "such enormous numbers of particles have to be fired that the energy expended is much greater than that given out. A million or a hundred million particles might have to be fired to hit one atom."

"The experiments are not made with any practical end in view, but to add to our knowledge."

"We hope that within the next few years we shall get some idea of what these atoms are, how they are made, and the way they are worked."

May Aid Exploration

Recognition Of Russia Will Help Work In Central Asia

Recognition of Russia by the United States was seen as an aid to scientific exploration in the hitherto inaccessible reaches of Central Asia by Dr. Roy Chapman Andrews, noted explorer.

Co-operation of Russian scientists has been assured following recognition, he said, to attempt to explore the brigand-infested regions around Russian Turkestan, where much valuable prehistoric data is believed hidden.

"This little explored territory is the most important in the world from the standpoint of natural science," Dr. Andrews declared.

Dr. Andrews is vice-director of the American Museum of Natural History.

Cars In United Kingdom

Road Census Shows Larger Number Driven Last Year

The increase in the number of motor vehicles on the roads of the United Kingdom in 1933 is estimated at almost 500,000, according to a road census taken by the Automobile Association in September, during the peak period of traffic, at more than 100 important points throughout the country.

During a week 3,252,000 vehicles passed observers. The average was nearly 70,000 more a day than in 1932, and the total shows an increase of nearly 1,000,000, compared with the census in 1928.

Marvels of the Human Eye

NO. 3.—SOME OF THE FACTS AND THEIR USES.

The Vitreous Humor is the transparent fluid filling about the four-fifths posterior cavity of the globe which is thus enabled to retain its shape. It resembles the white of an egg and is surrounded by a thin membrane lying close to the retina. The lens hangs vertically in a depression its convex form makes for itself in the front part of the Vitreous, so the strength of the reading glasses has to be changed particularly, although the vision for distant objects may remain as good as it ever was.

Besides the muscles inside the eyeball there are six pairs attached to the outside and various nerve supply power for their functioning just now this functioning, whether harmonious or otherwise, takes place but will be the subject of another article.

No Vote, No Taxes

Threat Of French Women If Franchise Not Granted

"No vote, no taxes" may be the threat of feminists if the Senate remains obdurate to their petition for franchise, according to M. Lou's Martin, who frequently has tried to induce the Senate to grant votes to women.

"At a time like this," he says, "when new taxes are looming in the offing, this matter is of vital importance." If the vote goes against him, M. Martin maintains that he will fall back on an amendment giving women the right to vote at municipal instead of parliamentary elections.

Common Difficulties And Dangers Draw Remaining Nations Closer

The League still stands. No flag has been hauled down at Geneva, but the German and Japanese. "Other members of the League have been drawn closer by common difficulties and common dangers. The United States and Soviet Russia are working harmoniously with them, and the direct discussions between those two great countries are of the best omen for the world. So far from recent events proving that the Geneva system is a failure, they have demonstrated unanswerably that in the Geneva system alone is salvation to be found. If not disarmament, then rearmament, and if rearmament, then war. And disarmament is possible on one condition alone, that the nations weary to disarm in accordance with their pledges stand inseparably together."—London Spectator.

SYNOPSIS

Camilla Hoyt, young and beautiful art student, and Peter Anson, a struggling sculptor, fall in love and marry secretly, deciding to live apart until the time Peter can establish himself. Camilla, the adopted daughter of wealthy parents, is not in a hurry to marry, but she is not in a hurry to live with them. She is preparing herself for life with a course in commercial art, hoping to get a job to enable her to support herself. She has been making the rounds of the agencies. Peter, working in his studio on an idea for a figure with which he hopes to win a scholarship to study abroad, receives a call from a beautiful model, Sylvia Todd, who offers to work for almost nothing if he will employ her. He cannot afford a model, but promises to take her to the movies. Peter discusses the matter of a model with Camilla and decides to employ Sylvia Todd. Together Camilla and Peter decide on the figure. They are at the height of their happiness. At home Sylvia Todd receives a mysterious phone call. Peter begins work on his piece for the exhibit and Camilla, at her father's summer home, is a bit dissatisfied with him. Avis Werth, love with Peter herself, suggests that she and Camilla and Peter Wayne drive into town to get Peter for a party. Working on his piece, Sylvia Todd discovers she is also employed by Gus Matson, his former roommate, who once tried to take her from him and with whom Peter and Camilla quarrelled. Camilla and Avis arrive to take Peter off to the party. He goes, but being without money, slips away to a nearby pawn shop for a few minutes to pawn his watch. The watch pawned, Peter joins the others and they all attend a gay party at a fashionable club. Peter is a bit panicky when bridge at ten cents a point is suggested.

Now On With The Story

CHAPTER XXIV

But Peter was neither a winner when he found himself in a tight place nor a quitter when he started a thing. A good sport saw a thing through without resorting to excuses, according to his inflexible creed. He even managed a debonair nonchalance when Avis maneuvered to be his partner. For awhile, the cards were decidedly against him. He felt a squeezed breathlessness within him. On the third deal, he doubled his opponents had secured for the first time; and on the last deal he had a hundred aces, did no trump and made it by a close margin. His total loss to his opponents was only two dollars and seventy cents, but it might well have been ten times that amount against him. Pure luck, that was all.

For that matter, he would have preferred an even break, but he paid his loss with a gay indifference. The evening was young, yet. Plenty of time for emergencies, later. Camilla had eyes on him anxiously, and knew that she had been as much concerned over the outcome of the game as he was. Of course, she did not know that his watch was in pawn, but she well knew that his balance was always precariously near the jumping-off place, and knew how serious a loss might be to him.

Cathie was just urging another game when Bates rescued the hour for Peter by announcing that dinner was served. His impressive countenance, which he would have maintained for no one except Camilla, denied the soaring record of the mercury, his resentment at this sudden addition to his duties and his disapproval of youth in general.

He had been a fixture of the Hoyt household when Camilla had joined ten years ago, and new servants might come and old ones go, susceptible to Camilla's winsome manners and tolerant for wages sake, but Bates remained immovably loyal. He alone, of the present menage, knew that Camilla was not a daughter of the Hoyts, which secret he never disclosed as some servants would have delighted in doing, but it vindicated his fatherly interest in every thing which concerned her.

Was she not one of his own—a stranger in a far country where problems and hostilities bedeviled on all sides? True, Camilla had moored at what appeared to be a fortunate anchorage, but that was discarded when it meant constant submission to a benefactor like Mrs. Hoyt. He had realized this from the first, long before Camilla was old enough to leave the advantages, pro and con, of her situation.

The bond of friendship between this blind automaton who was Bates in disguise and the pitiful little orphan who had had two sets of parents and yet no paternal sympathy, had developed when the bewildered child in her strange new environment had sought some explanation of her new mother's disciplinary measures and had discriminated between the two conflicting elements of life, interpreted the one for her in the language of the other, so that it had been Bates' human affection and presence as much as anything, which had been responsible for Camilla's satisfactory development from the chrysalis into the butterfly. More to do with it, in fact than Mrs. Hoyt's dutiful mastery of psychology and psychiatry.

Bates also was one of those few who knew about vermin—their imminent rejection into that world from which she had been captured; like a wild bird confined in a gilded cage until it had forgotten all the innate cunning of life assistance and preservation, then released again, to conquer a home of which it knew nothing and to soar in the clouds with eagle-weakened wings.

His first rebellion had been replaced by a secret hope and exultation, fostered by Camilla's staunch effort to meet the situation. After all, it might prove to be the best thing for Camilla, to return to her own element. He knew that she only tolerated these guests who professed to be her friends, and it was for her sake that he performed his duties unobtrusively.

Preceding the dinner, he moved swiftly about the vermin with trays of tomato juice cocktails and canapes that were like minute formal gardens in their ornate designs. The chef had devoted hours to their dainty perfection and these irresponsible boys and girls consumed the delectable morsels as if they were nibbling them with elaborate lack of appreciation.

Bates' eye had favored Peter, since that first night when the latter had humorously ridiculed his rigid addition to formality. One thing he did not know was that the child who had come to Camilla, for which his proteges felt some compunction. But she knew that the only way to keep a secret was to confide in no one. There was no sharing that particular secret with anyone except Peter. However, if the time should arise when she needed a champion, she might count on Bates, Camilla knew.

Hilarity increased with the further progress of the meal in the dining room which also was half exposed to a sweeping view of the lake, lighted now with translucent moonlight that trailed a silver path across the black water, like a bridal veil trailing down a carpeted aisle. But these revelers who followed a mad pace in their search for youth's passion, ignored the romance of the night and sat their appetites with games of chance, and the consumption of liquor, imported delicacies and risqué conversation.

Avis and Terry set the pace and challenged the others to follow. Competition was keen, and their asinine wit sparkled like a lighted ember tossed from one to another. There were only two who never reacted to grasp the fiery brand and fling it back again. Camilla was bored and disgusted; Peter was shocked, though he was a man for a that. He smiled with effort at their bold quips and replied to their direct sallies with scintillating propriety.

Of course, his place was beside Avis. Mrs. Hoyt had arranged for that and Avis contributed her best to the arrangement.

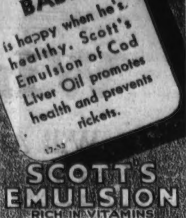

"Did you hear that Bruce Walton had gone crazy over that Townsend girl who is a guest at the Mallory's?" inquired Cathie. "He thinks she is beautiful. Now, I ask you—what can Bruce see about her?" This new interference had played havoc with Cathie's summer flirtation, as everyone knew.

"Oh, he saw her getting into a car," Terry shrugged. "Appreciation was duly expressed. 'She must be years older than Bruce,' Cathie continued, 'and Bruce is no adolescent. How old would you say she is, Avis?'"

"Plenty. And she makes it worse. A woman is only as young as she looks, while a man is young as long as he looks. Bruce has two eyes and uses them."

Hilarity mounted to a crescendo which subsided only to mount again with Terry's inquiry, "Well, I haven't seen the new party. Are asking you boys, has she got bedroom eyes?" "Lan sakes, no, boss!" Dan Mason mimicked, "she's done got dinin' room eyes, just plain o'nary dinin' room eyes."

Under the din of laughter which caused Avis murmured to Peter, "Shall we walk up the beach after dinner? I want to talk to you about your work, Peter. I want so much to help you. I'm bored to tears with all this rot, and you're just about the only interesting man I know."

Avis was trolling her line for a sucker. Peter frowned. She thought he was one that would swallow the bait, hook, line and sinker. He closed his mouth with a snap, figuratively speaking, and swam aside warily. If he stayed inside, it would probably involve a loss at cards, but he preferred to stay outside, where he could see the boats, and to an hour alone with Avis Werth on the beach. He risked an alternative.

"Sorry, I've promised Miss Hoyt to do some impersonations to help entertain the crowd. I think that is the real reason she came into town for me."

"Oh—her involuntary reaction of impatience was changed with sudden tact to one of surprised admiration. 'Why! I didn't know you were an impersonator! Is there anything you can't do?' she murmured. 'I'm dying to see you perform.'"

"Well, I'm not all good that it would be worth all that effort. Like all amateur stuff," he thought with some amusement. "Neither does Camilla know I am an impersonator. We have been much too busy for her to discover that. But she has to know it now, and use me, I've committed myself to the prosecution."

Camilla was no less surprised than Avis to discover an entertainer in her party, but she was grateful for the diversion.

"I've let myself in for it, dear, to escape that mermaid who wants to lure me out on the moonlit beach," he confided. "I told her I came out to put on a vaudeville act for the crowd. Want me to try? I know a few stunts."

"That would be wonderful," Camilla agreed. "I was just wondering what to do with them."

So, with a few improvised articles to supplement his imitative features and gestures, Peter became shuffling, stammering, and patient, erudite Andy, dandified George Arliss, facetious Will Rogers, guileless Gracie Allen, voluble Walter Winchell. His efforts were strenuously applauded and audibly complimented. His audience was the kind that does everything vigorously, so long as it has nothing to do with work.

Prohibited Weapons

Scotland Yard Head Issues Order Covering Pistol Pistols

"War on the toy pistol has been declared by Lord Trenchard, commissioned officer of Metropolitan Police. He has issued an order under which all 'pistol pistols' (reproduction of the real pistol 'gun' used by American gangsters) now on sale in hundreds of shops are declared prohibited weapons under the Firearms Act, 1920."

Any such pistol exposed for sale or found in the possession of any person is to be seized and forwarded to the home office or Scotland Yard. This order is made because the authorities are seriously disturbed at the mounting of the cheap "toy" pistols, which, it is stated, can be purchased very cheaply and easily converted into dangerous weapons.

While the makers of pistol pistols have agreed to discontinue sales, a large number of these "toys" have already been distributed to firearm dealers, stores and shopkeepers. Under the Firearms and Imitation Firearms (Criminal Use) bill which received a unanimous second reading in the House of Commons recently "gunman" using imitation firearms to avoid arrest will be liable to 14 years penal servitude.

Japan Buying Rayon Fulp The spectacular development of the rayon industry in Japan is of great interest to Canadian pulp exporters since Japan is not a large producer of rayon pulp. The domestic product is not regarded as satisfactory because of its short fibre. It is estimated that the total demand for rayon pulp this year in Japan will be over 60,000 tons.

Alberta's Fruit Industry Fruit production in Alberta continues to increase with excellent crops of apples, crab apples and plums in many sections of the province, according to a provincial report. In certain irrigated sections of Southern Alberta, crops of apples, crab apples, plums and cantaloupes have been produced on a commercial scale for some years.

Originates Dangerous Stunt

"Lawrence of Arabia" Provides Practice For Bombers Of British Fleet

Bombing planes roaring over the cold waters of the North Sea, raining missiles on a swift but dimmy speedboat, hold no more terrors for the maverick "Lawrence of Arabia" than did the fierce trispartite of the burning sands during his thrilling exploits in the Great War.

With Hubert Scott-Paine, famous speedboat designer and driver, Lawrence has been revealed as originator of a stunt which has been providing the big bombers of the British Fleet with practice that has developed an astounding efficiency in the pursuit and bombing of fast craft.

Scott-Paine designed a new type of armored and unbreakable speedboat of revolutionary design, while Lawrence, in order to test the revolutionary idea, accepted, served as the original target, piloting the boat with small protection from the dunnop but nevertheless heavy and dangerous bombs from overhead.

For some years the only naval target allowed was the old and slow warship "Centurion." From his work with the speedboats, Lawrence conceived the idea of building fast 40-foot speed boats, unbreakable, with a "crash" shelter for its small crew, as special targets for bombing practice.

The design of the new boats is being kept as close a secret as was the bombing operations in the North Sea. As many as 12 planes chase the boats on occasions.

The craft are manned by three men each; the boats themselves are packed with rubber and have steel plates for protecting the engines and crew. Tests have been conducted in all kinds of weather during the training seasons, two boats operating nearly every day. Every kind of bomb has been tried, including the spectacular diving of bombing planes which attain speeds of 300 miles an hour.

Each boat takes three two-hour turns in the bombing area, speeding up and down in a straight or zig-zag course according to wireless instructions, while planes rain bombs on them.

Enjoys Joke Against Himself

Prince Of Wales Has Keen Sense Of Humor

In a speech at a banquet of radio manufacturers recently the Prince of Wales revealed himself the possessor of a keen sense of humor. Speaking of the radio, he said that most people like it because it makes them feel that they might feel like tuning in to a symphony orchestra, another public service, another time it might be a dance orchestra, or it may be important to know the fact stock prices or how the radio is shaping. He continued:

"If the listener gets tired of any of these things—for example, if he gets fed up with one of my public utterances—there is a simple remedy in the shape of a little knob. A fraction of a turn and he can be listening to something else. I only wish all other matters of our life could be disposed of so easily."

Incidentally, he revealed that he has radio sets in his two airplanes and listens in while flying. He thought it would interest Sir John Keith, head of the B.B.C., to know that it took him about half an hour's flying before he got out of range of their wonderful music and got anything he wanted to hear.

The Prince can evidently tell a joke against himself as well as make one at the expense of others.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Yes And No

A man walking along a street was accosted by a stranger.

"Excuse me," said the stranger, "do you know where the postoffice is?"

"Yes," replied the man and walked on.

After a few paces, it occurred to him that he had been a little rude not to have told his inquirer where the postoffice was, so he ran back to him, he said: "Do you want to know where the postoffice is?"

"No," replied the stranger, and he walked on.

Prince Is Knew Gaffer The Prince of Wales has accepted the captaincy of the Royal St. David's Golf Club, Harlech. The prince, himself a keen golfer, has been associated with many leading golf clubs in Great Britain, and in 1922, was captain of the Royal and Ancient Club of St. Andrews, the governing body of the game. Early this year he consented to become captain of the Worpleston Club, Brookwood.

Cases Puzzle Doctors

People Who Claim They Have Not Slept For Years

Doctors are stumped by the baffling case of William Blackburn, of Manchester Road, Huddersfield.

Mr. Blackburn claims that he has not slept for an hour since he underwent a serious operation eight years ago.

Every night he takes two morphine tablets that enable him to rest, and he sits in bed reading and smoking. When his daughter was ill recently he spent a fortnight at her bedside without taking any rest.

Doctors who have attended him have informed Mr. Blackburn that, according to all the laws of nature, he should have died years ago.

He has had sufficient morphine to kill several men, but it has not been enough to make him even drowsy.

The case of Mr. Blackburn is not an isolated one.

Three years ago E. T. Maher, of Heaton, Newcastle-on-Tyne, claimed that he had not slept for twenty years.

His explanation that in 1910 he had a cycling accident and did not regain his senses for eight hours. Then he found that he had cycled home without knowing it. He then developed a pain in his head, and he had not slept since.

A Hungarian Government official, M. Paul Korn, who declared he had not slept for fifteen years, presented brain specialists with a problem a few years ago.

He asserted that he had not even closed his eyes since he was wounded in the war, but he was still able to carry on with his work, and the specialists were unable to discover any abnormality in his brain.

It was recently claimed for a seventy-seven-year-old widow of Coged, near Budapest, that she had not had a moment's sleep for twenty-two years.—London Daily Mirror

Chinese Are Thrifty

Cooks Can Show Western People How To Save Food

So thrifty are the Chinese and so resourceful in handling food that a Chinese family might live on what was wasted in the average American kitchen, Alice Tisdale Hobart says.

The author of "Oil for the Lamps of China," who recently returned from a sojourn of several years in the Orient said that most people in the Orient are so thrifty that they might feel like tuning in to a symphony orchestra, another public service, another time it might be a dance orchestra, or it may be important to know the fact stock prices or how the radio is shaping. He continued:

"Nothing is wasted in a Chinese kitchen," Mrs. Hobart said. "And by that I mean absolutely nothing. I have had many bowls of delicious soup that had been made from chicken heads."

Mrs. Hobart said that because of her interest in Chinese cooking, several Chinese women came to a woman's club in Peking, and talked to her about the mechanism of their vehicle. The more attention should be able to pay to events on the road; and the more responsive his car is to braking and acceleration, the easier should it be for him to maintain a wide margin between himself and the risk of accident. The modern motor car is a piece of work, a mechanical thoroughbred; if all motorists were worthy of their cars there would be very few accidents.—Yorkshire Post.

Looks For Big Catch Of Foxes In North

The fox catch will be big in the north this winter, according to information received by Del Simons, veteran northern trader, who was in Flin Flon on a business visit.

The catch of coloured fox in southern sections of the north is larger than usual, while he does not yet know the general volume of the white fox catch in areas of the far north, he said.

Mr. Simons is touring the north in the interests of the Dominion Auction Fur Sales of Winnipeg.

Luxury Baths For Miners

Luxury baths costing over $100,000 were opened at Ocean City, Trehanis, Bats, for the use of the miners. The baths have accommodation for 1,824 men, each of whom will have two private lockers in which to keep their clothing and their belongings. There are 112 bathing cubicles, with shower apparatus, curtains and mirrors. After the men leave the building their boots are automatically cleaned by electricity.

Tried Simplest Method

I like the story, says the Sporting and Dramatic News, of the diligent search by the technical staff of a film company to reproduce the sound of a golf ball being driven past the sound-recording apparatus. They tried swinging a wipac branch through the air, a fly-swatter, and vocal noises. None of them was any good. But in the end they did achieve the desired result. They drove a golf ball past the microphone.

Not Looking For Sympathy

English Doctor Says Fat Men Glory In Their Curves

Somebody once said, "Nobody Loves a Fat Man," and the phrase has stuck, but a greater man named William Shakespeare, boasted the fat man and disliked the Cassius type with a "lean and hungry look." Doctors tell us it is a crime against physical fitness and long life to carry more than about ten per cent. excess flesh. Therefore, it is pleasing to find an English doctor, one Christopher Howard, who is himself fat putting in a second plea for the fat man in such a staid professional journal as the Lancet.

"We glory in our fat," he writes, "our laughter, good temper, sociability, our appreciation of food and drink, and company. We would rather die in full than in famine. It is in our middle age that rather than in scrawny-legged misery for a few extra years, lean and lovely people, suspicious and suspected."

Admitting that he is not even a small fat man, Dr. Howard protests against "pseudo scientific, pontifical pronouncements, and declares: 'We will not be pitted—for we glory in our curves. We are the salt of the earth, so let us damn the diet-rites and stick to our savory. Attenuated beings who gorge to the full and yet continue to look taut and nervous (nervous), have the impertinence to accuse us of greed because we eat when we are hungry.'"

Laughter, good temper and sociability—these are common virtues in a fat man—and of these the world needs a great deal more.

The world would be a miserable place without our jolly fat men.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

MYSTERY

How strange, when most we strive to see Through changing veils of place and time The world about with clarity.

To set life's jargon into rhyme Whose measures like a pulse-beat flow Through words that ring and chime.

Then most the truths which we would know Recede to far, untravelled lands Wherein no mortal foot can go.

Our seeking eyes, our groping hands Clutch floating mist and empty air; One truth we grasp none understands!

Yet, even so, comes no despair; Though years afford us short no key, Life still is lovely, loved and fair.

The unknown birds us like a sea And we ourselves are mystery!

Immigration Falls Off

Dwindles Into A Mere Trickle For First Ten Months Of 1933

Immigration into Canada which swelled into a mighty flood a few years ago dwindled to a mere trickle in the first 10 months of 1933. According to figures released by the Department of Immigration, 12,506 men, women and children, representing 41 races, entered Canada between January and October. This was a decrease of 32 per cent. from 1932 to 1933. Immigration into Canada reached a peak of 402,422 in 1913.

In the 10-month period, 7,540 Americans entered Canada, 2,024 British subjects and 571 northern Europeans.

Japan Plans Trade Reprisals

The Government, expressing fear that Japanese products are to be excluded from European and British Empire markets, is preparing to ask the Diet for power to make tariff reprisals by executive decree. A Foreign office spokesman said Tokio is alarmed over numerous reports from Europe indicating plans to bar Japanese manufacturers, and some of the reports hinting at concerted action to this purpose by several powers.

CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING

A half century of married life was worthily recognized on the evening of Jan. 10, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Brown, Fairview, eight miles northwest of Lacombe. This marriage took place near Listowel, Ont., at the home of the bride, who was Mary Clyde. Of the other adults present then none survive. Mr. and Mrs. Brown came to this district forty years ago, and were the first settlers. They watched the country grow up. From the first their home was open to everyone, and they both have had a most prominent part in everything that has gone on since. Mr. Brown took the lead in securing a school and church, and helped build both. He has been an Elder in the church for many years, and has always given it most generous support. Mrs. Brown has been a leader in the Ladies' Aid.

About ninety guests assembled in their beautiful and spacious home to honor this couple who have done so much for the community. Councillor Fred Stewart acted as Chairman. A pleasing program was given in which Mrs. E. Ogilvie, Mrs. Leslie Oulton, Misses Sheila Cameron, Dorothy Gatz, Mary Ogilvie and Edith Clegg; Messrs. Cameron Fraser, H. G. Simpson, and William Chessor, took part. An address was read by Mrs. F. Ogilvie. Speeches were made by Mr. Fred Butcher, a thirty-year neighbor, and Rev. R. B. Layton, Lacombe. A presentation of two beautiful arm chairs was made through Mr. Marshall Douglas, for which Mr. William Chessor gave thanks on behalf of the honored couple. There followed a singing and refreshments, during which friends made personal greetings. Mrs. William Chessor, Lacombe, is the only living issue of the marriage. There are six grand children.

ANNUAL MEETING

BOARD OF TRADE

The annual meeting of the Lacombe and District Board of Trade was held in the Town Hall on Monday evening, there being a fair attendance. President DeLong was in the chair. The report of Secretary Treasurer Jesse Fraser was read, and a synopsis of the year's activities given. After the routine business had been transacted, Prof. Martin, of Canadian Junior College, gave a most interesting and instructive talk on Australia. Having lived there several years he was in a position to give first hand information. He told of the wonderful opportunities of Australia, its mode of government, its principal products, etc., and its wonderful recovery from the depression. His talk was listened to with great interest, and the only regret is that his audience was not larger.

The suggestion was also made that efforts be made to form a Young Men's Branch of the Board of Trade, and a committee was nominated to start the same.

The following officers for the year were elected:

President, Geo. DeLong; Vice-President, Henry Frame; Executive, A. M. Campbell, A. Belcher, P. Switzer, F. H. Reed, C. A. Sneath, W. N. Morrison, G. T. Jackson, Tommy Wilkes.

HOSPITAL MEETING

At the annual meeting of the Hospital held Monday afternoon, Jan. 16th, retiring Directors, Mrs. J. Gilmour, Mrs. D. Cameron and Mrs. N. Morrison, were re-elected for a further term. Other members of the Board include: Dr. Sharpe, who officiated as Chairman of the meeting, Dr. W. T. Hynes, C. B. Halpin, F. E. McLeod, A. M. Campbell, A. Belcher, auditor, and the Secretary-Treasurer, A. D. McDonald.

Financial statement made interesting comparisons with the previous year. Cost per patient per day was $3.07, the same figure as 1932, which is considered very good in face of the spasmodic conditions which existed throughout the year. 438 patients received care, totalling 2847 hospital days, as against 203 patients totalling 3584 hospital days last year.

A vote of thanks was extended the matron, Miss Osborn and staff for efficient manner in which the hospital has been managed.

"GOLD DIGGERS OF 1933" AT THE AVALON

This Week End

"Gold Diggers of 1933" is a "back of the back-stage" story, a dramatic and amusing insight into the lives and loves of the people primarily responsible for the staging of a great New York show. It is an intensely human story climaxed by a triumphant and spectacular "show" in which Busby Berkeley's choruses of 300 picked beauties are lavishly displayed in dance assemblies unequalled in the history of stage or screen.

It is, furthermore, the story of three gold digging show girls into whose capable hands the problem of finding an "angel" for the show that will give them employment and opportunity, is entrusted. The tricks and trades behind many a Broadway success, are disclosed in a whirlwind of exciting incident and amusing situations. The song-writing scene of a proud family eventually involves both its severely proper older brother and the family lawyer in the intricacies of showmanship. All in all, it is a dramatically sound comedy drama enhanced by the generous production values of the "big show."

COMING: Clyde Beatty in "Big Game," one of the finest animal shows of the year, Jan. 25, 26 and 27.

"Three Cornered Moon," Feb. 1, 2 and 3.

HOCKEY

Lacombe Oxfordians proved their right to their local reputation of being a snappy little hockey team, by taking into camp the fast skating, hard playing, Stettler juveniles here on Thursday evening, to the tune of 4-3. The Oxfordians had the edge on the play nearly the entire game, keeping the visitors bottled up in their own territory, the major part of the time. Seaby, the splendid net minder of Stettler's, saved a much worse score, as the Oxfordians got in at least 35 direct shots which he stopped against 5 shots which they managed against Clift. Stettler drew first blood in the first session, Sharp and Costigan combining with the former taking the goal. Chapman, the sturdy sharp-shooting centre of the Oxfordians retaliated a few minutes later to even the score, but again Sharpe and Costigan repeated their performance, the latter taking an easy goal, because Clift used his skates instead of his stick to defend the goal. Mackie took a rebound off the goalie's stick from a shot by Costigan to put the visitors two ahead in the middle period, the rest of the session being tied up with penalties.

The Oxfordians came on the ice in the third period ready for battle, and Chapman, put things on an even basis by taking two goals in quick succession. From that on some good hockey was witnessed until the end of the period. With three minutes to go, in front of Stettler's goal, Carter lifted the goalie's hand to retrieve the puck and hit the net for the winning tally.

Penalties: Stettler 5; Lacombe 5. Lineups: Stettler, Seaby, R. Wilson, Telford, Sharpe, Mackie, Watson. H. Wilson, Potter, McCall. Lacombe, Clift, E. Todd, Carter, S. Todd, Chapman, E. Todd, T. Caruthers, McFadden.

It is expected that the next home game will be on Thursday, Jan. 18th with Red Deer.

KILLED SISTER FOR FUN
Rocky Mountain House--An eleven

year-old boy was committed to the Red Deer provincial institution for the training of children following an inquest here, which resulted in the finding that he had shot and killed his sister, Florence Cheyne, 15, but that he did not "appreciate the seriousness of his act."

The boy, Cecil, a brother of the dead girl testifying at the adjourned inquest, said that he had shot his sister "for fun" and could give no other reason for the offence. Two stories were told at the hearing Wednesday, one that the lad had shot his sister in the head while she slept, and the other that he shot her while she was lying on the couch and following an argument resulting from him playing a gramophone.
